Growing with trust

FACTSHEET

June 2026

Letter from the CIO

Dear Investor,

June was a special month for us as Fident India Builder Equity Portfolio — FIBER completed two years.

These two years have not been easy for Indian equities, especially for small and mid-cap companies. Markets went through a difficult phase marked by geopolitical tensions, elevated crude oil prices, persistent FPI selling, AI-led global capital rotation, weak earnings momentum and valuation concerns.

Despite this challenging backdrop, FIBER has endured the cycle well and delivered meaningful alpha.

FIBER outperformed the benchmark by 6.3%, since inception

At Fident, our focus has always been simple — own the right businesses, respect valuations, and stay patient through cycles. The last two years were largely about stock selection. We were able to identify growth themes available at reasonable valuations, even in a market where sentiment remained weak.

Importantly, after the broader market correction over the last two years, the opportunity set today looks better than when we started. Valuations in several quality small and mid-cap companies have become more reasonable, and we believe the market is gradually bottoming out.

June also saw a notable turnaround in market sentiment. India outperformed several emerging markets, supported by easing oil prices, RBI liquidity measures, abating FPI outflows and resilient domestic institutional inflows. Small and mid-cap stocks outperformed large caps, highlighting the growing importance of domestic liquidity in Indian markets.

We have been vocal in our earlier newsletters about crude prices normalising sharply. With that playing out, we believe the fear of earnings cuts for Indian companies due to high crude prices is now largely behind us. Corporate profitability at around 5.2% of GDP, strong credit growth above 17%, early signs of private capex revival, healthy auto data, and improving trade indicators all point towards the resilience of Indian corporates.

Over the last two months, we have met more than 40 companies, and one message has stood out clearly — corporate India is far more confident than market sentiment suggests.

Despite El Niño concerns, commodity-led margin pressures and near-term macro noise, management commentary on demand, capacity expansion and growth visibility has been among the most constructive we have heard in years.

This gives us increasing conviction that India is not merely recovering from a weak cycle, but potentially entering a stronger and broader earnings upcycle. Over the next few years, we remain positive on manufacturing exports, domestic capex, power, industrials, defence, EMS, private banks, outsourcing and select quality compounders.

As we complete two years of FIBER, our approach remains unchanged: disciplined stock selection, sensible valuations, and a long-term focus on businesses that can participate in India's growth story. The last two years tested patience. The next phase, we believe, can reward it.

Warm regards,

Aishvarya Dadheech
